Libertatem announces new Communications Director

We are pleased to announce that David Haines has joined Libertatem as our Communications Director.

David has worked for the Institute of Financial Planning, IIF, Impartial Media and The IFA Association so he knows both the issues and the sector very well.

His appointment coincides with an initiative to get out amongst our advisers and talk to you about our new trade association and the efforts we will be making in order to take your business, and the industry as a whole, forward.

David has already started to improve our marketing to advisers and will control all non-political communications

David's involvement will release Garry Heath to be able to do more lobbying and to attend as many industry events as he can.
